Callahan's journey is one of resilience, determination, and the power of artistic renewal. After a car accident leaves him paralyzed from the waist down, Callahan struggles to come to terms with his new reality. He turns to alcohol and drugs to numb his pain, but his addictions only serve to worsen his condition.

A Life-Changing Encounter with a Support Group

Everything changes for Callahan when he meets Donnie (Jonah Hill), a fellow alcoholic and quadriplegic. Donnie introduces Callahan to a support group, where he begins to confront his demons and find a new path forward. With the support of his newfound friends, Callahan slowly rebuilds his life and rediscovers his passion for art.

Artistic Renewal and the Search for Meaning

Through his art, Callahan finds a way to express his pain, humor, and unique perspective on life. His cartoons are often dark and biting, but they also reveal a deep understanding of the human condition. Callahan's art becomes a source of healing and inspiration for both himself and others.

As Callahan's career as a cartoonist takes off, he must grapple with the challenges of fame and the pressures of living up to expectations. He also struggles with the guilt of his past actions and the desire to atone for his mistakes.
